

Infant Son Of President Will Be Buried Sat.

BOSTON (AP)—President Kennedy prepared to bury his son today with a special Mass for children said by his close friend, Richard Cardinal Cushing, the Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston.

Mrs. Kennedy remained at the Otis Air Force Base hospital recuperating from the Caesarean section delivery in which she gave birth to Patrick Bouvier Kennedy Wednesday.

The third child of the President died Friday at Boston's Children's Hospital Medical Center nearly 40 hours after his birth.

Condolences from all over the world started to pour in immediately.

Only 13 others, all close relatives, were invited to join the President at the services today in the chapel at Cardinal Cushing's residence.

The group included the President's two brothers and their wives — Atty. Gen. and Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy and Sen. and Mrs. Edward M. Kennedy — and his three sisters and their husbands, Eunice and Sargent Shriver, Jean and Steven Smith and Patricia and Peter Lawford.

Also invited to attend the funeral were Mrs. Kennedy's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, and Mrs. Kennedy's sister, Mrs. Stanislaus Radziwill.

Other members of the family planned to visit Mrs. Kennedy at the hospital during the services.

The ritual of the Mass of the Holy Eucharist, to be celebrated by the Boston prelate, was established for children who died before reaching what the church considers the age of reason — about seven years.

The infant will be buried at Holyhood Cemetery in Brookline, the suburban community where the President was born. Cardinal Cushing was asked to officiate.

Patrick Kennedy died 39 hours and 12 minutes after he was born. He succumbed to hyaline membrane disease — a membrane formation of the lungs which doctors said prevented oxygen from reaching the blood stream.

The President stood by when the boy died at 4:04 a.m., after teams of doctors and technicians struggled in vain to preserve the young life.

President Kennedy left immediately after the death for the air base hospital on Cape Cod to see his wife. He made three visits to the hospital, each time accompanied by one of his brothers.

Also visiting the First Lady Friday night were her sister, Princess Radziwill, who had flown here from a vacation in Greece; Mrs. Auchincloss, the First Lady's mother; her stepfather; a half sister, Janet Auchincloss, 18, an a half brother, Jamie, 12.

The President also visited his father, Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to England, at Hyannis Port.

Mrs. Joseph Kennedy talked with her son by telephone from Paris but was persuaded not to return home for the funeral by the President.

There was no mention of the baby's brother and sister, Caroline, 5½, and John Jr., 2½, who had been told of the birth. They had to be told by the President that the brother they were expecting wouldn't be coming home.

Garland Farmers Can Get Help

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The Farmers Home Administration announced Thursday that Garland County farmers had been declared eligible for federal disaster aid because of a drought that lasted from October 1962 until July 1963.

Just a few weeks earlier, the Small Business Administration declared businessmen eligible for disaster aid because of a heavy flood.

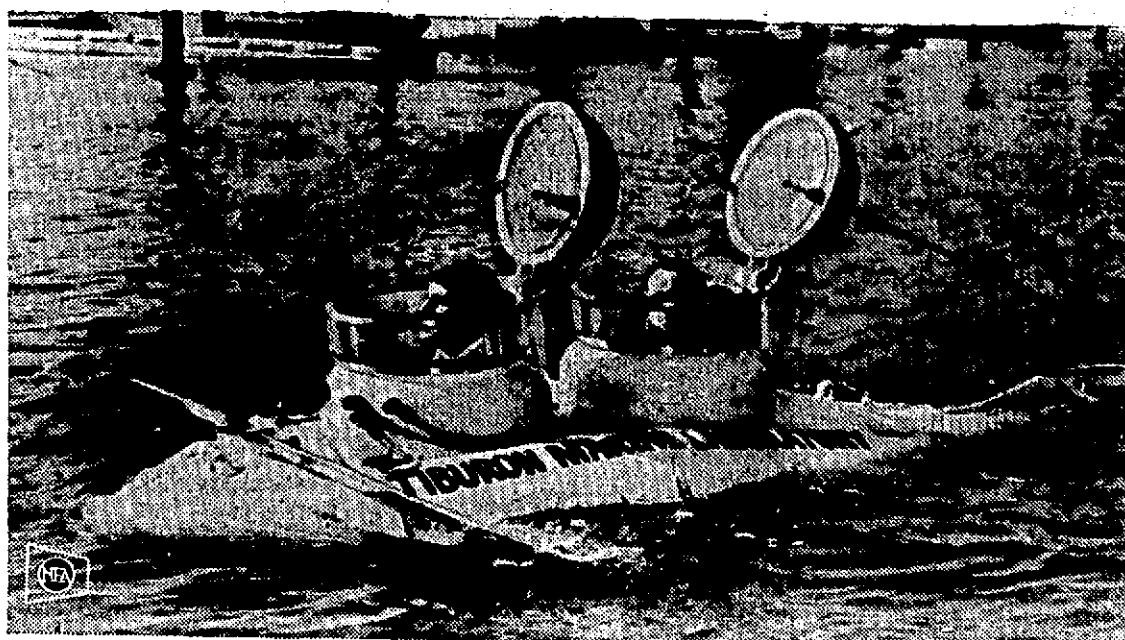

Ironically, the rain that broke the drought caused the flooding.

Both farmers and businessmen are eligible for one-year federal loans at three per cent interest.

Raymond Nash, head of the FHA office at Hot Springs, said the drought last fall was followed by a hard winter freeze which ruined most of the county's hay and grain crops.

Junior Counselors at Hope High School Have Passed Test — They Are Important

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Junior Counselors of Hope High School in the Guidance Counseling Program are the first organized group of high school students in the United States to assist counselors in scoring and compiling test results and in working with follow students, according to Earl Downs, Guidance Counselor at Hope High.

For four years the program has included 10 boys and 10 girls. Five boys and five girls are selected in their junior year and serve for two years. In this way the program has Junior Counselors that are both experienced and new each year, and the novices are well-trained by the time they are seniors.

What do the Junior Counselors do? They assist Guidance Counselor Downs with the volumes of charts and bookwork necessary in the program. It is understandable why there is so much of this work when the whole program is considered.

Every April achievement tests are given to all the students in grades 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 11, and 12. Each year the improvement can be followed in this way. With special emphasis on the freshman and senior years of high school, tests are given in September to the 9th grade students to determine their interest, inventory, mental ability, and English aptitude.

In October a statewide testing program for seniors is conducted, with the colleges helping with the expense. There are two tests — one is a college board test and the other is part of the American College Testing Program. Catalogs on every college and university in Arkansas and those attended by Hope students at the present time are available at the Guidance Counselor's office.

There is general information on where to pursue certain studies and the cost of the training. At this time of information one can find mental and physical requirements for 40,000 jobs, and occupational briefs on 4,400 occupations.

Some of the information to be found is related to schools of high-learning while much is dealing directly with job opportunities, qualifications, salaries, and the outlook for the next 10 years. There are 142 high schools in Arkansas with the Guidance Counselor service, and they stress that they "help the students make their own plans."

At least once a year each student discusses test scores with the Guidance Counselor and makes plans for the next year's work. The importance of this is seen by Dr. Dolph Camp of the U. S. Office of Education, who taught math and science at Hope High in the mid-1920's. This specialist in the Guidance Counselor Program said:

"The single-score test of scholastic aptitude is still helpful in individual students if they use it with enough supporting data. Even the brightest student would have trouble entering college if he had not taken the courses required for admission."

Students find that these problems and others can be surmounted with the aid of a Guidance Counseling Program like the one we are fortunate in having at HHS.

Many State Residents Are Shareholders

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Want to make some money? Ever consider the investment field? You might be surprised to learn that 58,000 Arkansans are shareholders today — investors in numerous firms.

In fact, the investment craze in America's affluent society has caused Arkansas' number of investors to increase several thousand each of the last few years.

The Wonder State isn't yet encroaching on the size of the investment world of such stock-country bastions as New York or Pennsylvania, but more and more Arkansas people definitely are turning toward the stock markets with their extra money.

Arkansas ranks 41st among the states in the number of investors.

And if you prefer keeping your money close to home, maybe you would like to invest in any of the several firms who have operations in Arkansas and are listed on the exchanges.

George Cress, manager of the Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc., at Little Rock, said firms on the exchanges who have there are about a dozen major plants in Arkansas.

Among them, he said, are Arkansas-Louisiana Gas, Aluminum Company of America, Reynolds Metals, Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing, International Paper, Georgia-Pacific Corp., E.L. Bruce Co. and Arkansas Power & Light Co.

Now that we have established some investment possibilities, perhaps you're worried about what you've heard about the stock market.

With the help of G. Keith Funs-ton, President of the New York Stock Exchange, let's supplant some myths about the market with the facts.

MYTH: Today's market is one comfortably similar to the one that crashed in 1929.

FACT: The differences between past and present are more striking now encompasses about five billion than the similarities. The market shares worth $250 billion, whereas in 1929 it had about one billion shares worth $90 billion. Margins, which are down payments necessary to purchase stock, are imposed at the rate of 90 per cent now, compared to as little as 10 per cent 30 years ago. The amount of credit extended to exchange firms now is actually less than one-third the 1929 amount.

MYTH: The market is setting the pace for the rest of the economy.

FACT: The market merely reflects the way investors assess the future. As the Wall Street Journal said recently: "The stock market merely reflects economic pressures. It causes neither booms nor recessions, inflation nor deflation. Its prices, high or low, are results, not causes."

MYTH: Stocks are for the wealthy few.

FACT: Most shareowners are middle-income people.

Now, exactly what is a stock? Merrill Lynch, with offices in Little Rock and Hot Springs, explains it this way. A stock is a part of the ownership of a company. If you own 1 per cent of the company's stock, you get 1 per cent of the dividends.

A dividend is that part of the profit which is not plowed back into the business. Most companies pay dividends at a regular rate, such as $1, $2 or $5 a share of stock. In good years the rate may be increased beyond the regular dividend. In bad years it may be cut, or eliminated.

A company's board of directors decides what dividends will be paid and when. The directors are elected by the stockholders. Ordinarily a shareholder gets one vote.

Rusk Off To West Germany For Support

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk flies to Bonn today to rally West German support for the nuclear test ban treaty after wide-ranging talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev on cold war issues.

Rusk scheduled the 20-hour stop-over partly to soothe West German apprehension over the limited test ban pact which Communist East Germany plans to sign. Bonn fears the treaty could be manipulated to force recognition of East Germany and seal the division of Germany.

West Germany wants assurance that the test treaty will not be used to jeopardize the freedom and security of West Berlin.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Foreign Minister Gerhard Schröder were expected to insist to Rusk that the West receive such a guarantee before West Germany adheres to the treaty.

They were expected to make similar demands in considering Khrushchev's proposals to ease cold war tensions — an East-West nonaggression pact, reductions in military spending, and ground inspection teams on both sides of the Iron Curtain to guard against surprise attack.

Rusk planned to brief the West German leaders on his week of talks in the Soviet Union before returning to Washington Monday to drum up support for Senate ratification of the test ban treaty.

Rusk conferred with Khrushchev for 2½ hours Friday at the Soviet premier's lavish Black Sea retreat in a relaxed meeting followed by a fast game of badminton.

Khrushchev, 69, claimed victory over Rusk, 54. "Practice," Khrushchev said then Rusk told him, "You play well."

Among other things they discussed Germany, Berlin, trade, Laos, Cuba, and the nonaggression pact. Rusk said that no conclusions were reached and that negotiations will continue through normal diplomatic channels.

There evidently was no talk of a summit meeting.

After a huge Russian-style meal on a porch overlooking the sea, Rusk returned to Moscow.

Dr. Ward Is Cremated in Secrecy

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Stephen Ward was cremated Friday in strictest secrecy a few hours after a coroner's jury decided that the man who started the Profumo scandal had died by his own hand.

The suicide verdict was delivered after just three minutes' deliberation by a seven-man coroner's jury.

Witnesses testified that traces of a sleeping drug were found in Ward's blood. Coroner Gavin Thurton recorded that Ward's death was caused by barbiturate poisoning.

The 50-year-old osteopath and playboy scribbled a batch of notes before he swallowed the fatal pills, saying the strain of the trial had been too much and the imminence of a guilty verdict had driven him to suicide.

Ward died last Saturday after lying in a coma for 80 hours. He never learned of his conviction on two charges of living off the immoral earnings of Christine Keeler and Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davies.

Ward introduced Miss Keeler to War Minister John Profumo, who resigned in disgrace after the liaison became known.

Other Sites To Be Investigated

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—The Fort Smith Auditorium Commission, which lost its construction site last Tuesday when voters turned down a proposed Urban Renewal project, began studying other sites Thursday.

Payne Morrow, commission chairman, said the group discussed several sites, but did not settle on one. He said the commission wanted to select a site as soon as possible so construction could begin on the $2.5 million facility.

The commission had planned to build the auditorium on a downtown site in the Urban Renewal area. Fort Smith voters gave overwhelming approval two years ago to a bond issue to finance construction of the auditorium.

Matrimonial Chances Drop Considerably as the Woman Becomes Older and Older

Mr. Hoover Is 89 Years Old Saturday

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Herbert Hoover observes his 89th birthday Saturday—still too young to take it easy.

The former president, who was desperately ill two months ago, works at his desk each day in his Waldorf-Astoria suite.

A spokesman described him as in good spirits but impatient to complete a book he is writing—a history of the past 30 years.

The man who coined the phrase "rugged individualism" made one concession to his convalescence. He dispensed with the informal news conference he customarily holds the day before a birthday.

But he issued a statement expressing his confidence in America and thanking "the thousands of people who sent me messages of goodwill during my illness and greetings now for my 89th birthday."

His doctors also issued a statement commenting on his strides from the illness.

"Mr. Hoover's health has improved continuously since his episode of gastro-intestinal bleeding in June. There has been no recurrence of bleeding since that time. His heart has remained normal in rhythm," the statement said.

"He has steadily become stronger and is able to work at his desk for short periods each day. The number of his visitors is still limited, and his physicians believe it advisable that he should not assume any public obligations at the present time."

As a precaution, doctors still visit Hoover regularly and a nurse is always on hand.

But not all of Hoover's writing is on the heavy side. He recently published a book, "Fishing for Fun," subtitled "And to Wash Your Soul," which has been hailed for wit and wisdom.

Part Of JFK's Tax Program Is Approved

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — House writers have now passed judgment on most of President Kennedy's tax revision proposals, though their decision on the major tax cut part of his program still lies ahead.

The Ways and Means Committee has gone at least part way with Kennedy on most of the suggestions he made in the name of reducing inequities and bringing more income under tax so that rates could be cut more deeply.

But in terms of revenue, the committee has provided for only about one-third of what Kennedy proposed — about $1 billion, instead of more than $3 billion.

It still is expected to recommend a tax cut approaching Kennedy's net $10-billion-plus proposal. But because it has not broadened the tax base in the way he suggested, it will not be able to recommend the kind of rate reductions he advocated from the present range of 20 to 91 per cent. He proposed 14 to 65, but appear only both the bottom and the top levels, as set by the committee, will have to be higher.

For the offsetting revenue it sought, the administration relied heavily on one provision which never got off the ground in Congress: a proposal to cut down itemized deductions — for local taxes, interest, charity, and the like — by allowing only the amount in excess of 5 per cent of a taxpayer's income.

The Treasury said this would bring in $2.3 billion a year, more than two-thirds of the total pickup it wanted.

This proposal proved almost universally unpopular among legislators. The closest the committee came to it was to recommend disallowing deductions for state gasoline, liquor and cigarette taxes — although real estate, income and sales taxes still would be deductible. This is tagged for $500 million additional revenue.

Kennedy, while not suggesting any change in the 27½ per cent depletion allowance in the petroleum industry, called for changes in the factors on which depletion is calculated and other tax tight-enings in the field of oil operations.

Unofficially, his recommendations were estimated as costing the industry up to $280 million a year in taxes. The committee approved a fraction of the package, estimated at $40 million.

Negro Named to Top Home Finance Post

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas Negro has been appointed to a top-level, $11,150 position in the Fort Worth regional office of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, the agency said Friday.

Samuel Hudson Jr., 53, formerly with the Housing Authority of Dallas for 21 years, became assistant regional administrator for inter-group relations Tuesday.

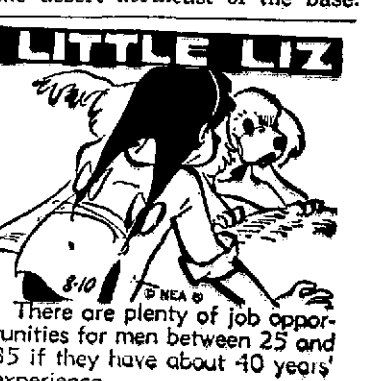

An agency spokesman said the position is a new one within the government organization which supervises the activities of the Federal Housing Administration, the Public Housing Administration and other related agencies.

Hudson is one of 11 Negroes in the 252-regional office staff, a spokesman said, he is the highest ranking and highest paid of the 11.

The Fort Worth office supervises the agency's programs in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Colorado.

Says Treaty Could Cause Serious Gap

By RALPH DIGHTON

Associated Press Staff Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A member of the U.S. negotiating team says the limited nuclear test ban treaty points up a serious gap in the technology necessary for nuclear arms control: underground detonations.

They were excluded from the treaty because scientists have not found a sure way to detect and identify all subsurface blasts, Dr. Frank Press, director of technology laboratories of California Institute of Technology, said in an exclusive interview.

Precise information about this research is secret. Neither side wants the other to know how much progress is being made in distinguishing explosions from earthquakes.

But informed sources say this research is going ahead full speed, because a breakthrough could lead to cessation of all nuclear weapons testing.

"The treaty signed in Moscow is a good first step, but I doubt if anyone would deny there is need for a more comprehensive treaty," said Dr. Press, a technical member of the U.S. negotiating team.

"Science has made some very significant advances in the field in the past five years, but we are all looking forward to the day when underground tests, too, can be prohibited, with assurance that any violator will be exposed," he said.

Atmospheric tests can be detected at great distance because of the radioactive debris.

Underwater tests can be detected because they set up sound and pressure waves that travel thousands of miles. Tests far out in space can be detected reasonably certain because they throw off some radiations that are different from those ordinarily found in the solar system.

Scientists cannot be sure of identifying "seismic events" — underground shocks — of less than magnitude 4 with monitoring stations outside the Soviet Union.

Magnitude is a way of measuring underground shocks on a scale that puts most property-damaging earthquakes at magnitude 5 or higher. Magnitude 5 is 10 times

Treaty Must Give Adlai Satisfaction

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai Stevenson was just part of the American delegation which went to Moscow this week for the signing of the limited nuclear test ban agreement. But his satisfaction must have been special and ironic.

The second time he ran for the presidency, in 1956, he proposed a nuclear test ban. He wasn't the first to do it. But as the campaign neared its end this became the biggest issue. It didn't do him any good.

That wasn't the only irony in the story.

The Soviets made the suggestion before he did, on Nov. 29, 1955, proposing that the countries with nuclear weapons pledge to discontinue their testing.

Nikita Khrushchev suggested it again in February 1956. And on April 12 of that year Thomas E. Murray, a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, suggested the United States stop testing H-bombs.

Stevenson picked up Murray's idea and seconded it on April 21. That was before he got the nomination.

All through the campaign, Stevenson hammered away at the idea, which seemed to develop in his mind as he went along. At first he seemed simply to suggest that this country stop the tests unilaterally and ask the Soviet Union to do the same.

In time he seemed to think there should be an agreement with Moscow before this country stopped, although he didn't quite say that. But he said the United States should take the lead in stopping hydrogen bomb tests.

And on Sept. 30, 1956, he said "I have proposed a moratorium on the tests and 'if the Russians don't go along... we will know it... because we can detect H-bomb explosions without inspection.' Later he talked of 'agreement' to end the tests.

President Eisenhower wanted no part of the Stevenson-Murray proposition. He clamped down on them fast, in April, before the campaign and even before he knew Stevenson would be running against him.

He said this country needed to do research both on H-bombs and missiles to carry them and research without tests would be "perfectly useless—a waste of money."

The Eisenhower administration wanted some way to check, or inspect, to prevent cheating. Stevenson's point was that explosions would be known anyway.

Ex-president Truman backed Eisenhower. He said the Soviets couldn't be trusted to keep an agreement. But last week he approved the agreement just made with Moscow. He said "we are duty bound to explore every opportunity to put an end to this armament race."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon excoriated Stevenson for his proposal in the 1956 campaign. He called it "catastrophic nonsense." He said it did not protect "Americans from nuclear bombing because it lacks the essential ingredient of inspection."

But last week in Europe and again Tuesday night on his return to New York, Nixon said he feels sure the Senate will approve the agreement just reached with the Soviet Union although it has no provision for inspection.

And in the middle of the 1956 campaign, Soviet Premier Bulganin wrote to Eisenhower and, without saying so, supported Stevenson by suggesting the big powers at least agree on banning tests, even if they couldn't agree on anything else.

Eisenhower bawled him out for sticking his nose into the presidential race. He said all plans for stopping the arms race and reducing armaments "require systems the strength of magnitude 4; magnitude 5 is 10 times the strength of magnitude 4, and on up the scale.

NEW GIANT OF THE AIR—The total distance flown by Orville Wright—120 feet—on his first flight at Kitty Hawk in 1903 would not have quite traveled the length of America's new jet aircraft giant, the C-141 Starlifter. The C-141's fuselage, shown being assembled by Lockheed-Georgia workers at Marietta, Ga., is approximately 125 feet long. When nose and tail are added, it will stretch 143 feet. The Starlifter will see service in the Military Air Transport Fleet and also as a domestic cargo carrier.

Nobody Hurt in Hurricane Wake

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — Hurricane Arlene whirled over Bermuda at 92 miles an hour today, but no one was injured and damage was negligible.

Some banana and pine trees were blown down and the causeway leading to the U.S. Air Force base at Kindley Field was blocked.

The eye of the hurricane — a section of dead calm — crossed Bermuda exactly at noon.

The radio asked Bermudians to be on the lookout for strange, migratory birds blown in by the high wind.

The storm diminished gradually of inspection and control."

Two years later—on Oct. 31, 1958—the Eisenhower administration announced exactly what Stevenson had proposed: a moratorium on testing. It said the United States would stop testing, leaving it up to Moscow without any agreement, to do likewise.

The Soviets stopped testing, too. The two sides went on talking about disarmament and reaching an agreement on nuclear test bans. Nothing happened. President Kennedy took over. And on Aug. 30, 1961, the Soviet Union announced it was ending its voluntary test ban and would start testing. It did. So did this country.

On Aug. 27, 1962, Kennedy proposed that, if the two sides couldn't agree on how to ban underground tests, the most difficult to detect, at least they should agree on banning tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under the sea.

The Soviets wouldn't buy. Yet the very agreement they reached with this country July 25 is in effect what Kennedy proposed: a ban on tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under the sea. They could not agree on stopping underground tests. So they let that go.

On July 31 Eisenhower wouldn't say he approves or doesn't approve the agreement. He said he preferred not to comment until military men and scientists had expressed their views.

WIFE AT THE CROSSROADS

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: For 12 years I've been trying to make the best of walking a treadmill: up at six, dress our three kids, cook breakfast, get my husband off to work and, at this season of the year, pen up the children (they're all small) in the yard where I can keep one eye on them and the other on my housework.

When the house is tidied, I fix them lunch and dress us all neat and clean.

By then it's time to start dinner. My husband may or may not come home. He plays handball three or four nights a week, but for all the companionship or love I get, he might as well stay away every night. When home, the TV or radio—not me—has his attention. He never takes us any place nor do we do things together like a family should.

Small wonder that I've fallen out of love with him. But not until the other evening did he notice I was acting different.

We had a long talk and I told him the truth—at least part of it—that I didn't love him like I once had. He cried, saying he loved me more than anything else in this world, would give up handball completely and live only for me and the kids. All I could say was, "It's too late."

You see, I've fallen in love with another man—sensitive, talented, sweet and outgoing with a wonderful personality. The kids adore him and he them but he's not pushing me to make a decision. He hopes it will be to divorce and marry him. At first we tried not seeing one another. I was so miserable I cried, walked the floor and felt physically sick. He felt the same about me.

My husband, despite his indifference, is sweet, kind and easy-going. I hate to hurt him yet he has been hurting me all these years. Whatever decision I make, one or more of us is going to be hurt. It was love at first sight for me and this other man. We felt we'd always known one another. He says I'm his only reason for living. He's in my thoughts and heart day and night. I'm nearly crazy, trying to decide what to do. Help me take the right road. —Troubled Wife.

Dear Troubled Wife: How much easier it would be for you if your husband were Bluebeard! Then you could close the door on your marriage and go on to new romance with a clear conscience.

Alas, he's not really bad. He is romantically indifferent, or disenchanted with the moonlight-and-roses phase of your marriage and prefers handball to holding hands, but he loves you. What a dilemma these poses, with a paragon of suitors waiting for you to fly into his waiting arms and a second round of romantic love!

Do you realize that what you consider a fatal sag in your marriage may be, to your husband, a settled state? Unquestionably he has forgotten, or never knew, that ly through the afternoon and was heading eastward — away from the U.S. coast, which weather officials said is not threatened.

courtship must not cease at the altar, that a husband must go on courting his wife in countless ways, not necessarily with all the ardor of youth, but with suggestion of that ardor.

Love has as many subtleties as light on the desert. Have you stopped being the exciting and desirable girl your husband married? Of course you have, and perhaps without realizing it. It would be extremely hard to maintain the heady whirl of early love, and proof of it is the mush-married glamor personalities whose private life is public property, and who fly from one bedroom to another in pursuit of an objective that grows smaller and smaller with each marriage: romantic love. You have changed, and he was changed, but you think his change is fatal, and yours deserving of fresh attention from another man. What will happen if the bloom wears off the second romance?

Leave your husband if you must, but don't go before you test your power to make him fall back in love with you. Don't go before you're convinced that romantic love is the core of a successful marriage. And above all, don't go with a guilty conscience. That, for you, would be hell on earth, because you never gave him the second chance to give you what he wasn't sure you were missing.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Rules of Handling of Free Food

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The attorney general's office held Wednesday that necessary and reasonable expenditures for handling school lunch commodities would be legal under a 1963 act setting a maximum expense allowance of $300 a year for the secretary of a county board of education.

The secretary moves government commodities from school lunches to the school district pickup points within his county.

The ruling went to Education Commissioner Arch Ford, who had asked whether it would be legal for a county board of education to spend more than $300 a year for handling school lunch commodities.

Burns Fatal

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Ed F. Rambo, 56, a former railroad worker, died in a Little Rock hospital Friday of burns suffered when he was trapped in his burning home Thursday.

Rambo was found by firemen, lying on the kitchen floor. Firemen dragged him outside and administered oxygen until an ambulance arrived.

for each share of stock he owns. The directors, the representatives of the stockholders, are the real company bosses. The company president and other officers of the firm must answer to the directors.

In addition to common stock, about which we have been talking to this point, some companies also offer preferred stock, usually offered originally at $100 a share. Such stocks usually carry a set dividend rate and almost without exception a company's dividends must go first to holders of preferred stock, then to holders of common. Prices of preferred stock do not fluctuate as much as common stock prices.

You may prefer investing in bonds. Unlike stockholders, bondholders are not part owners of the company. Bondholders are creditors of the company. In the event of a company's failure, the debt owed to bondholders must be paid before any remaining assets can be divided among the stockholders, first the preferred and then the common.

In addition to corporate bonds, there are state, city and government bonds. On state and city bonds, the revenue from taxes is frequently pledged as security for repayment. Back of U. S. Government Bonds — the highest-grade investment there is — lies the nation's integrity.

The price of stock, like the price of food or clothes, depends on how much buyers are willing to pay for it and how cheaply those who own it are willing to sell it.

At any given time, the price of stock is nothing more than the collective expression of all the opinions of all the people who then are buying and selling it — their opinions about its value.

If many people conclude at the same time that a stock is overpriced, they may sell it, and the price will probably fall. When such a trend can be seen throughout the market, it is said to be a bear market, reflecting investors' pessimism about the economy.

If, on the other hand, many people conclude at the same time that a stock is selling at a bargain, they may decide to buy it, and the price will go up. That is why stock prices sometimes fluctuate sharply, instead of changing only an eighth or a quarter of a point—which is an eighth or quarter of a dollar — the price may go up or down several points, or dollars.

When a buying trend is prevalent throughout the market, it is on a bullish trend — a bull market, reflecting investors' optimism.

The stocks are referred to by initials or combinations of letters, such as C for Chrysler Corp., CP for Canadian Pacific, and CGW for Chicago Great Western, on the quote boards.

The alphabetical and fractional maze on the quote boards could hardly be solved at a single sitting. Over 1,100 stocks are listed on the New York Exchange, alone, and there are several other markets for stocks and bonds.

Investment possibilities range all the way from the firm that makes your comb to the firm that supplies material for the nation's defense to the firm that sold the goods that you had for lunch today.

New Chief Will Have to Resign

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Hot Springs Police Chief Joe Crain apparently will have to give up his job to former Chief John Erney, who retired Feb. 16, 1960, for health reasons.

The attorney general's office ruled Tuesday that Erney was entitled to the job if he had recovered his health.

Tom Stough, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, said a physician member of the commission had examined Erney and found him fit.

Erney was succeeded by Clifford Sanders, who retired July 31. The commission appointed Crain, a police lieutenant, to replace him, but Erney, recently an employee of the Vapors supper club and gambling casino, announced that he wanted his old job back.

GOPs Want Kennedy to Prove Claim

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are demanding President Kennedy prove his claim that the limited nuclear test ban treaty will increase U.S. security.

The proof will be sought when military and scientific experts are questioned in hearings on the treaty, said Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

In sending the pact to the Senate Thursday, Kennedy said the ban on atmospheric, space and underwater blasts "will assure the security of the United States better than continued unlimited testing on both sides."

The United States could make further progress in its weapons program if atmospheric tests were continued, the President said, but "so would the Soviet Union and, indeed, so could other nations."

He continued in the 1,500-word message: "It should be remembered that only one atomic test was required to complete the development of the Hiroshima bomb. Clearly the security of the United States—the security of all mankind—is increased if such tests are prohibited."

Underground tests are not barred and the President has said they will be continued.

Later, talking to reporters, Dirksen said:

"I presume that the President is fully prepared, through necessary witnesses, to fortify his avowal that our security will be enhanced, instead of impaired, by the provisions of this treaty."

The treaty was signed in Moscow Monday by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union. To take effect it must be approved by two-thirds of the Senate.

In Washington, Moscow and London Thursday, officials of 34 other nations signed the pact. It is expected to pick up more signatories today and Saturday. The State Department says 82 nations have announced they intend to sign and more than 100 are expected to do so eventually.

After Kennedy sent the treaty to the Senate it was referred immediately to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee where public hearings will start Monday in the big caucus room of the Old Senate Office Building.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, flanked by Undersecretary W. Averell Harriman, who negotiated the agreement in Moscow, and William C. Foster, director of arms control and disarmament, will open the administration's presentation.

On Tuesday, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will testify. Members of the Senate Armed Services Committee and the Senate members of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee will sit in on the sessions.

Dirksen made his call for proof of U.S. security after Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., told the Senate that the record on which the treaty must stand or fall has yet to be made.

Goldwater said the Senate must act on facts, not on "assumptions, hopes, fears and fantasy."

Former Hotel Operator Dies

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — J. Will Howe, 68, a retired Hot Springs hotel man and husband of Asst. Editor Edna Lee Howe of the Hot Springs Sentinel-Record, died Wednesday at a Hot Springs hospital after several months of ill health.

Howe, a native of Algiers, La., had lived in Hot Springs since 1911. He built and operated the Howe Hotel, which later became the DeSoto.

Other survivors include a son, a daughter, a stepdaughter and nine grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 9 a.m. Friday at Gross Mortuary in Hot Springs. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery at Hot Springs.

The family has requested that contributions be made to the American Cancer Society in lieu of flowers.

Auditorium Site Sought

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—The Fort Smith Auditorium Commission was to meet today to discuss site possibilities now that it can no longer hope for property in the Garrison Plaza urban renewal project.

Fort Smith voters rejected the project by a two to one vote Tuesday.

A $2.5 million bond issue to finance construction of an auditorium was overwhelmingly approved two years ago, but the commission decided to wait development of the urban renewal project because a downtown site was not desirable.

Several tentative sites have been discussed.

Wants Police to Handle Licensing

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - The Citizens Traffic Safety Commission said Wednesday it would like to see the driver licensing duties of the Motor Vehicle Division of the Revenue Department transferred to the State Police.

The commission, an unofficial group organized at the suggestion of the Little Rock City Manager Board, said it planned to sponsor a move to ask the 1965 General Assembly to enact a bill authorizing the transfer.

The proposal would transfer all drivers and chauffeurs license records to the State Police and would permit State Police to cancel the license of an unqualified driver. It would require the driver to take a license examination, just as he did before receiving his first license.

Champion Fails to Qualify

CHICAGO (AP) - Chet Jastremski, Indiana University pre-med senior and world record holder in the 100-meter breast stroke, failed to qualify in his specialty today in preliminaries of the National AAU Outdoor Men's Swimming Championships.

The 22-year-old Jastremski, who has been nursing shin splints throughout the summer, was clocked in 1:13.4 for the 100-meter breaststroke trials.

He missed qualifying for the eight places in the afternoon finals by one-tenth of a second.

Topping the breast stroke qualifiers was Bill Craig, Verdugo Hills Swim Club (Calif.) in 1:10.2. Jastremski's world mark is 1:05.

Qualifying times for other afternoon finals were comparatively slow at the Ridgeland Common Pool in suburban Oak Park.

Jed Graef, New Jersey Swimming Association, paced the 200-meter breast stroke in 2:15.3. Best time in the 100-meter butterfly was 59.2 seconds by Indiana's Larry Schulhof.

In the 400-meter freestyle, Don Schollander, 17, of the Santa Clara Swimming Club, posted the fastest time of 4:24.7. The championships were regarded as a preview of America's Olympic swimming forces.

Oklahomans Resume Trip

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Two Oklahoma youths resumed their trip down the Arkansas River today after spending Wednesday night on a sand bar near Little Rock.

The two, Bill Swan, 19, and John Cordell, 18, left Pryor, Okla., last Friday on a trip down the Arkansas and Mississippi rivers to New Orleans.

At Little Rock, where they purchased gasoline and oil for the 18-horsepower motor they have on their 14-foot flatbottom fishing boat, they said the main problems they had encountered were "sand bars and sun."

They said the shear pin on the motor had been broken twice when the boat ran up on sand bars.

"Even at half speed it gives you quite a jolt to run onto a sand bar," Swan said.

The boys, who have been making about 60 miles a day, bought more detailed maps of the river at Little Rock in hopes of avoiding sand bars farther down the river.

1st Bale of Cotton at Pine Bluff

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) - Lane Brown of the Fountain Hill community near Crossett brought the first 1963 bale of cotton to the Pine Bluff Cotton Exchange today.

Cotton men said it was the first bale reported in the state. It came in two days earlier than last year's first bale.

The 462-pound bale was ginned from 1,400 pounds of seed cotton at the Fountain Hill Gin. John Boyd, one of the gin owners, said the Ashley County crop this year will be the best since 1955.

Brown was not charged for the ginning and the gin paid him a $100 bonus. The Pine Bluff Cotton Exchange will auction the bale next week.

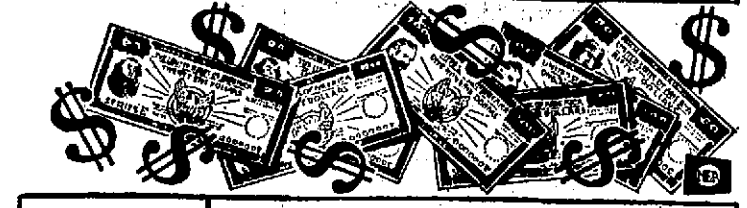

He said Wednesday it would like to see the driver licensing duties of the Motor Vehicle Division of the Revenue Department transferred to the State Police.

The commission, an unofficial group organized at the suggestion of the Little Rock City Manager Board, said it planned to sponsor a move to ask the 1965 General Assembly to enact a bill authorizing the transfer.

The proposal would transfer all drivers and chauffeurs license records to the State Police and would permit State Police to cancel the license of an unqualified driver. It would require the driver to take a license examination, just as he did before receiving his first license.

THE STORY: Benson is starting to regret his partnership with Shirl Dorrus.

VI

"We're taking delivery of two carloads of horses." "Horses!" he stared. "We got more broncos now that we're like I find use for!"

"But not like these. What's out there now I'm getting rid of," I said.

Though I had not really sorted it out to this extent, it had crossed my mind that one of these days, in his work upon the range, an Act of Providence or something might take him off my back. A rattlesnake, maybe, or a gopher hole. Some happily murderous cow brute, perhaps. In this kind of country the possibilities were infinite. A slipping girth, a broken neck. An avalanche. A falling rock.

Such comforting visions were no longer feasible. That lawyer we'd been to had cut their throats before ever I'd grasped his purpose. Those partnership papers he'd kept "for probate" had ruled out any such fortuitous solution. I was yoked to Shirl Dorrus tighter than Damon had been to Phintias.

A Mexican standoff. With that lawyer hanging over us neither Dorrus nor I could afford to let Death set him up as the survivor. It would seem too much of a coincidence. Don Alfredo's hacienda too obviously involved.

I had realized this all along. The only thing that bothered me was whether I'd convinced Dorrus that this was true.

There were, however, certain small satisfactions I might safely indulge. This was an ignorant man; to a point I could maneuver him. So long as the means for acquiring Villalobos remained beyond his ken, I held the whip hand. His ranch was in my name and while his unstable temper made him difficult, even dangerous, the greed I'd brought to the fore was a handle, a bar and barrier which a man of wit should be able to achieve quite a number of things.

"Before you throw your nose out of joint," I said calmly, "you had better consider the facts of this business. If it gets out we're partners the whole show will fold. This you had better believe and keep in mind, Shirl. I surveyed him grimly. "We have a good thing going but its feasibility, all the salient features, hinge irrevocably on the image of myself as master of Running Bee. We're done, stopped cold if anything—mind you, the least breath of suspicion—"

"Why don't you talk plain American?"

"If you want kindergarten words these horses I've shipped in are part of the stage dressing. props we're using to make the illusion of my ownership more real. A clean sweep, Shirl. We get rid of everything."

His chin shot out. "Not my cattle!"

"Whose cattle? Be reasonable, man. I've bought this place. I'll do anything I want with it. The more we can change it the more convincing it will seem. We're mulling down those flea coats. We'll put up a new house, new stables, corrals—something impressive, more in keeping with the notions of a gentleman horse breeder."

I saw the lips wrench back off

6 TEST QUESTIONS

THE Great Teacher painted a picture of the final Judgment. To the amazement of His hearers, He said the test questions would be six:

Did you feed the hungry? Did you give drink to the thirsty?
Did you welcome the stranger? Did you clothe the naked?
Did you visit the sick? Did you help men in prison?

Had there been a seventh question, surely, it would have been —
“Do you attend church regularly?” See the two faces . . .
simple, but a great transaction is taking place. If you have been sick a week, or two, or three — then you understand.
Living eyes are always hungry and to serve them is rich living. Why wait to give expensive wreaths and sprays until those eyes have closed in death? Attend church this week.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the material are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. “You in the Church and the Church in you” form a combination for good. Be a regular churchgoer and a daily Bible reader.

THE CHURCHES OF THIS COMMUNITY ARE THE ONLY INSTITUTIONS WHICH HAVE AS THEIR MAIN FUNCTION, THE TRANSFORMING OF HUMAN LIVES. THEY ARE THE SIGN BOARDS POINTING THE WAY TO GOD.

Sponsors of these messages urge faithful church support. Through these pages the appeal is for all men to stand up and be counted . . . to combat Communism on all fronts . . . to be faithful to God.

OUR PASTORS ARE GOD'S SERVANTS WHO CALL THE SIGNALS AGAINST THE ORGANIZED FORCES OF EVIL. THEY INVITE YOU TO ENLIST ON THE SIDE FOR GOD . . .
